DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restriction

1. Receipt is acknowledged of the Response to Election/Restriction filed 03 January 2005.

Specification

2. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

The following title is suggested: -- Method for Reconciling a Financial Account --.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1, 5-6, 8-9 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Schrader et al (US 5,903,881).

Re claim 1: Schrader et al discloses a method for reconciling a financial account of a user on a user device 301 (fig. 13; col. 12, lines 30+), comprising: accessing a user list of transactions entered by the user (i.e., set of transactions that have been cleared for or at the financial institution since the date 164 of the last update) (col. 17, lines 23+); downloading a financial institution list of transactions from a financial institution; storing the financial institution list of transactions on the user device (i.e., stored in database module 1407 (fig. 14; col. 17, lines 35+)); comparing the user list and the financial institution list item by item (i.e., matching) (col. 17, lines 40+); and providing a reconciliation function for each item on both of the lists (col. 17, line 40 through col. 18, line 44).

Re claims 5-6: wherein the user device is a personal computer, and the accessing a user list of transactions comprises uploading the user list from an electronic account register; wherein the user device is an electronic account register (fig. 13; col. 12, lines 30+).

Re claim 8: providing an indication whether an item has been cleared for each item upon completion of the reconciliation function (i.e., rendered in a different color and being removed from the mini checkbook 181 (col. 18, lines 1+ and lines 18+)).

Re claim 9: downloading cleared items, and items on the financial institution list of transactions but not on the user list, from a computer to an account register device (i.e., set of transactions that have been cleared for or at the financial institution since the date 164 of the last update (col. 17, lines 23-40).

Re claim 11: exporting data regarding the transactions to a money management program (i.e., finance application 304 or Quicken® (col. 2, lines 45+ and col. 16, line 63 through col. 18, line 44).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 2-4, 7, 10 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schrader et al in view of Dunn et al (US 5,134,564). The teachings of Schrader et al have been discussed above.

Re claims 2-4, 7, 10 and 12: Schrader et al have been discussed above and further discloses comparing the transactions to match transactions on the financial institution list to transactions on the user list (col. 17, lines 40-45), but is silent with respect to identifying unmatched transactions; attempting to match the unmatched transactions, absent user input, according to predetermined criteria to provide proposed matches; presenting the proposed matches to the user; accepting, on an item by item basis, a confirmation of the proposed matches by the user; presenting to the user a first group of transactions on the user list, but not on the financial institution list; presenting to the user a second group of transactions on the financial institution list but not on the user list; providing a user input capability for matching items from the first and second groups; and providing an indication whether an item has been cleared for each item upon completion of the reconciliation function.

Dunn et al teaches a method of reconciling financial transactions comprising identifying unmatched transactions (col. 6, lines 58-64); attempting to match the unmatched transactions, absent user input, according to predetermined criteria to provide proposed matches; presenting the proposed matches to the user (col. 7, lines 45-56); accepting, on an item by item basis, a confirmation of the proposed matches by the user; presenting to the user a first group of transactions on the user list, but not on the financial institution list; presenting to the user a second group of transactions on the financial institution list but not on the user list; providing a user input capability for matching items from the first and second groups (i.e., the user has an opportunity to select a record in the group) (col. 6, line 41 through col. 9, line 20).

It would have been obvious to an artisan of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the teachings of Dunn et al into the system as taught by Schrader et al in order to provide Schrader et al with a more accurate system in which the user has the opportunity to verify his/her transactions record with the record of the financial institution for the unmatched transactions, which preventing wrong matching pair occurred in the event of typo in transaction recording. Furthermore, such modification would provide Schrader with a more accurate and a time consumption system (i.e., by presenting/displaying the list of highest proposed match to the user, the user can selects the best match readily out of the highest match list without wasting time going through a whole unmatched record).

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

The patents to Schutzer et al (US 5920848 A); Davis et al (US 6038549 A); Blegen et al (US 6,757,716); Simmons (US 5,093,787); Kapp et al (US 5,233,547) are cited as of interest and illustrate to a similar structure of a method for reconciling a financial account of a user on a user device.
